I have it because when I set it back down on a glass case in a shop I was fooled by just where the glass was and hit the glass too hard, breaking off a foot. It was really too high priced anyway, but I bought it on the principle that if you break it, you buy it. I repaired it and still have it. Not my favorite salt story. Nancy V

Still a nice piece. My swans are 3 Burtles and Tate and two unmarked, but hey, when I put salt in them once for a dinner party no one knew, so now they live in my salt cabinet. Nancy, I'm sure it was a error on Burtles & Tate that they forgot to say they were salts as well as flower holders.we won't tell anyone. :-) Janelle
