

CONDIMENT SETS

August 1 - 31, 2011

-  OpenSalts.US
-  Past Topics Links
-  Back to Message Board

TOPIC:

Condiment Sets

1-149 of 149 messages

1 Debi Raitz* 08-01-2011 12:39 AM ET (US)	New month - New topic! Condiment sets that include an open salt! We have already done figural sets that have a specific shape. This is just all those regular sets that have an open salt, a pepper shaker, and a mustard pot.	Upg PRC
2 Debi Raitz* 08-01-2011 01:04 AM ET (US)	Don't forget that any size picture can be used and then click on the small image to see it full size.	Upk pict pers you and
3 Susie P 08-01-2011 08:36 PM ET (US)	 hmm, don't have many - and no photos; too pooped from vacation to take any now - but do have this one at least. I love the vivid colors!
4 Susie P 08-01-2011 08:37 PM ET (US)

oh, meant to post the one in the holder - will try again

5
Susie P
08-01-2011
08:40 PM
ET (US)

one other :) - wish I had a holder for this set :) - love the subtle shading here

6
Nancy
Villaverde
08-01-2011
09:02 PM
ET (US)

Susie, unfortunately, the only metal holders I have are for square pieces. If anyone would like a 3 or 4 section epns holder with square openings, let me know and I'll bring them to the convention.
Nancy V

7
Debi
Raitz
08-01-2011
09:33 PM
ET (US)

This is the Locke set I sold several years ago. It never had a holder, so maybe yours didn't either, Susie.

8
Nancy
Villaverde
08-01-2011
11:19 PM
ET (US)

I have an earthen ware Doulton Lambeth open salt and mustard pot, slightly larger than many. The accompanying pepper shaker is missing, and I doubt that there would have been a holder. They have angels rather than the hunt scenes. I'll try getting some photos done but am busy with visiting family.
Nancy V

9
Debi
Raitz*
08-02-2011
03:16 AM
ET (US)

I have always liked this blue to white fade with the matching stand and spoons. Guess I saved it as a really small picture...sorry.
Edited 08-02-2011 03:17 AM

10
Debi
Raitz*
08-02-2011
03:20 AM
ET (US)

This is another Locke set, this time in a stand.

11
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011

I had never seen a Locke set painted in Blue. Nice. I think I have a set decorated like Susie's but in a different shape. I will look, perhaps mine has a makers mark. Lovely sets so far. Inez

03:19 PM
ET (US)

12
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:28 PM
ET (US)

Here is another Locke collection. I have several actual sets. Notice that this set has columns and leaves.

13
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:30 PM
ET (US)

Forgot to say the square open salt is actually a basket weave and leaves, so that is at least 3 different designs.....

14
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:37 PM
ET (US)

Still looking for the cow set. Here is a blue and white lustre set. More likely European.

15
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:45 PM
ET (US)

Still looking for the set like Susie's. Found this one to be going on with. This set from the 1930-1940s (chrome tops) has a farm scene painted on three sides.

16
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:46 PM
ET (US)

That one is marked Made in England. Other than that no makers info.

17
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:51 PM
ET (US)

More likely German or Czech based on the design of the tops and 1920-1930s. This set has Swiss Sheep. I am looking for a farm scene like Susie's so that's why you are seeing these.

18
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
03:57 PM
ET (US)

Marked Lancaster and Sandland LTD Handpainted in England designed by TH Sandland. More likely 1900-1920 based on the tops

19
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:02 PM
ET (US)

This glass set with castor base is old. It has a rolled up paper in the pepper but the lid won't come off. My guess is German and 1880's

20
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:16 PM
ET (US)

This twisted handle diamond and daisy design set holder is 4-5/8" wide x 6" tall. All items 2-1/8" long x 1-5/8" wide and have a circular inside design to accommodate the handle. The shakers are 2/78" tall and the little open pot is 1-3/4" tall. Czech from the 1950's. Not quite and open salt but unusual.

21
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:20 PM
ET (US)

Brown Royal Doulton Set England - hounds

English Flosmaron more likely 1900-1910

22
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:27 PM
ET (US)

23
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:31 PM
ET (US)

Noritake Made in Japan. Early, so perhaps 1900-1910

24
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:38 PM
ET (US)

Percival Vickers Company LTD Manchester registered 27 June 1892

25
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:50 PM
ET (US)

Unusual shape in glass. Glass is unmarked. The silver is marked as silver made in London in the 1880's for the stand.

26
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:58 PM
ET (US)

Inez Austin

I wish there was a forum for shakers. These are a mustard and shaker by Thomas Webb and Sons in England c1880s. I will probably never find the third one for the set.

27
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
04:59 PM
ET (US)

Name for the set is Lobed Sprig. There is a raised design in the glass if you look closely.

28
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
05:04 PM
ET (US)

This Taylor Tuncliffe set arrived with the top edge of the bowl broken because in spite of my reminding the seller to secure the spoon they didn't and it wedged and broke the bowl in transit. I have never seen another set or pot like it, so no chance to fix the set other than glue.

29
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
05:11 PM
ET (US)

Baker Bros. (Ltd) of the Meir Works, Longton, Stoke-on-Trent printed mark c.1930-37, marked Meir Ware BB Ltd Staffs. Haven't found the third piece.

Blue and White lustre set of single roses marked only 85L which was probably a design designation.

30
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
05:20 PM
ET (US)

31
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011

05:27 PM
ET (US)

Percival Vickers Ltd Manchester registered 1 Jan 1886

32
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
05:40 PM
ET (US)

Having grown up not far from Manchester, I am like Percival Vickers Manchester LTD's glass. This set was registered 10 Oct 1885.

33
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
06:01 PM
ET (US)

Well I have gone thru all the photos twice and not found the long horn cattle set. So they are either still in England at my sister's or one of those helpful folks that come to visit have tidied them away. I find it very difficult to be polite when they do that. They just know they are being helpful and I just know they have OCD and need their meds. I had one once open my oven and come and tell me I needed to clean it. This was when I was hosting the garden party. AND HAD BEEN BAKING PIES! Why these folks have to wander into rooms with shut doors and help me by cleaning up I will never know. Sadly I often forget to call them when it's my turn to host and I remind members to come..... I know I have a set, I am good with designs. I suspect it is marked. Not the same shape, so it may have been a decorating house not a manufacturer.

34
Jane
Koble
08-02-2011
06:02 PM
ET (US)

Inez - forgot to get my towel out before I looked at your pictures. I love the set with the farm scenes and the set with the sheep. I assume there will be more to come???

35
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
06:14 PM
ET (US)

Hopefully. I have hundred's but need to get back to work on the book, I have goofed off the entire day: between photos, the dishwasher, meals, running the duster mop over all the floors.....LOL

36
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:19 PM
ET (US)

took a couple photos tonight; Inez; you have so many Wonderful sets; the book will be absolutely stunning!!! Can't wait to see it!! Love all the info you gave below; sorry I don't have any real detail..... :) -

37
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:22 PM
ET (US)

bottoms marked B2760

38
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:23 PM
ET (US)

no markings on set

39
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:24 PM
ET (US)

marked Sandland ware Staffordshire England

cased glass; in EPNS - took out of stand to show the windmills

40
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:25 PM
ET (US)

41
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:27 PM
ET (US)

cased glass - stand in bad shape; hoping to find another similar set

42
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:28 PM
ET (US)

swirled? glass -

43
Susie P
08-02-2011
10:29 PM
ET (US)

fruits

44 Lyleann
08-02-2011
11:42 PM
ET (US)

Here is a Taylor Tuncliff condiment set that was in my collection.

45
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
11:42 PM
ET (US)

Wonderful. I hadn't seen the 2 part stand before!

46
Inez
Austin
08-02-2011
11:44 PM
ET (US)

Nice Lyleanne, I almost bought one like that. I ended up missing the auction.

47
Debi
Raitz*
08-03-2011
02:05 AM
ET (US)

Advertising set I think

48
Debi
Raitz*
08-03-2011

02:06 AM
ET (US)

Love this holder

49
Debi
Raitz
08-03-2011
02:08 AM
ET (US)

Blue and white chintz type

50
Debi
Raitz
08-03-2011
02:09 AM
ET (US)

This set is marked Hanley

51
Debi
Raitz
08-03-2011
02:10 AM
ET (US)

Flow blue or not flow blue?

52
Debi
Raitz
08-03-2011
02:11 AM
ET (US)

Might have shown this set when we did Oriental looking salts

53
Debi
Raitz★
08-03-2011
02:12 AM
ET (US)

This set is quite small in comparison

54
Debi
Raitz★
08-03-2011
02:14 AM
ET (US)

I think JEWEL is the pattern name

55
Debi
Raitz★
08-03-2011
02:15 AM
ET (US)

Also have several golf themed sets but I need to take pictures of the others.

56
Jane
Koble
08-03-2011
10:32 AM
ET (US)

Yes, Inez, all that cooking, washing dishes, and cleaning really wastes a lot of important time! We should all have housekeepers!
Jane

57
Inez
Austin
08-03-2011
12:35 PM
ET (US)

You surely have some wonderful sets Debi!

58
Debi
Raitz★
08-03-2011

Inez, Thanks, but I think the same thing when I see all of yours too!
Debi

05:38 PM ET (US)
59 Nancy Villaverde 08-03-2011 11:28 PM ET (US)	Love your sets, Debi. Odd, but I notice they are all blue. LOL As for #51, I think not, but then I tend to think flow blue should be the ironstone or other pottery or heavy china on which the blue has blurred as it ran around the edges of its pattern. These pieces looks as if the deep blue was carefully shaded. Nancy V
60 Debi Raitz 08-03-2011 11:41 PM ET (US)	I don't think that set is flow blue either, but that's the way the seller described it. I have more blue and white sets, just not all the pictures taken. Now that I have my web site completely updated and all pages functioning again, I will concentrate on seller pages, and getting a lot of pictures taken of both my collection, and items I want to sell. Debi
61 Nancy Villaverde 08-04-2011 04:08 PM ET (US)	 Marriage of pressed glass holder with 4-piece cut glass set.
62 Nancy Villaverde 08-04-2011 04:09 PM ET (US)

Cut glass cranberry-faded-to-clear.

63
Nancy
Villaverde
08-04-2011
04:10 PM
ET (US)

Vaseline pattern in carriage holder.

64
Nancy
Villaverde
08-04-2011
04:12 PM
ET (US)

Many of you probably have one of these English souvenir miniature sets.
This one has the bear with the ragged staff motto of the Beauchamps of Warwick.

65
Nancy
Villaverde
08-04-2011
04:13 PM
ET (US)

English porcelain, open condiments molded into the base.

66
Nancy
Villaverde
08-04-2011
04:14 PM
ET (US)

Debi probably has this English set.

67
Nancy
Villaverde
08-04-2011
04:14 PM
ET (US)

All my images can be clicked on for larger image.

68
Jane
Koble
08-04-2011
06:13 PM
ET (US)

As I'm reading this, I'm putting in a call to a member of the seal team to rescue the bears so they can be brought to PA and play in the woods - or on a shelf maybe!
Jane

69
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-04-2011
10:39 PM
ET (US)

Wow... I don't know where to begin... Are our condiment sets only three pieces ? What are the Many piece sets called ? Will they come later ?
Here come just a few of my favorite three piece sets... I'm afraid I don't know as much about them as Inez does... What a fountain of information she is !!! P.J.

70
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-04-2011
10:41 PM
ET (US)

English I believe ?

71
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-04-2011
10:43 PM
ET (US)

Marked Lyon BSGDG - Seller stated over 100 yrs old?

72
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-04-2011
10:45 PM
ET (US)

This one is for Debi... Like the rose one only blue...

73
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-04-2011
10:46 PM
ET (US)

He's just for fun... Found him in France last year...

74
Debi
Raitz*
08-04-2011
10:49 PM
ET (US)

PJ: You know that blue one has my name on it somewhere!! The first one you posted, #70, is shown on the German catalog pages under Fenner 1935, and also VMG-Walther 1931. I have never seen it in a holder like that. Are there English markings on the metal?
Debi

75
Debi
Raitz*
08-04-2011
10:58 PM
ET (US)

I love that chef. I can still picture Chris Christensen dressed like that in a competition once. Loved it. I think the sets with additional pieces are called cruets or castor sets. We can do those another time. Actually we could probably have another whole topic on sets like the ones in #64 and #70, that are all one piece except for lids and maybe a shaker.
Debi

76
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-05-2011
06:34 PM
ET (US)

Debi,
I'll be sure to put your name on the blue one... no one else I know wants my salts... sooooo sad !!!
#70 Has no markings on either the glass or the metal... Got the set while visiting in Amsterdam maybe 10 years ago... I wrote down the seller told me it was English ??? Nice to know more about it... Thank you !!!
The little Chef... His head is the pepper shaker... I'm sure you already knew that... so he's an open salt, mustard with a lid and a pepper shaker... I have a shot with him all apart if you would like it...
Here come a few more shots...
Like Inez... This is a favorite division of my collection...
More later... P.J.

77
"The Salty

Nut"...
P.J.
08-05-2011
06:35 PM
ET (US)

Another one I thought was from England???

78
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-05-2011
06:38 PM
ET (US)

I saw a two piece that was yellow encased displayed earlier...

79
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-05-2011
06:39 PM
ET (US)

I guess this was to be used for a buffet ???
More to follow later ???

80
Debi
Raitz
08-05-2011
08:06 PM
ET (US)

PJ: I only pointed out that the glass portion of #70 seems to be very similar to those German catalog pictures. We all know how much different companies and countries copied off each other. With hardly any glass marked, your set could have been made almost anywhere. Could be that the glass was exported to another country that made the holder. With all the internet sales now, not to mention people traveling all over the world, we can't assume that because something was bought in one country that it was made there. Maybe your Amsterdam seller got it in England themselves and called it English. Who knows? We may never know where or when the majority of what we own was made. But it's fun to share them all with others, isn't it?

I hope everyone realizes that all the catalog pictures can be clicked on to view them larger. With operating systems changing all the time, I have noticed that when I click on a picture on the web now to enlarge it, it still resizes itself to fit on my monitor screen. But then the cursor is a little magnifying glass with a + sign in it. If you click on the picture, it will enlarge to the full size. Then the magnifying glass has a - in it instead. Click again and it goes back to fit onto the screen. I have Windows 7 and I'm not even sure if it's a Windows thing or an Internet Explorer thing. But if you have an older system and the pictures only fit onto your screen, then follow the instructions I have shown in the link at the top of the Catalogs page. Once you change that setting it should stay that way, and will not affect anything else.

Debi
Edited 08-06-2011 02:19 AM

81
Janelle
Jefferson
08-05-2011
11:46 PM
ET (US)

Shell Salt supported by a Dolphin. Unfortunately Mustard is not original and still looking for one. The sauce has a dipper attached to the lid. Markings A C & Co - Have not found out who they are

82
Janelle
Jefferson
08-05-2011
11:48 PM
ET (US)

Very Basic Imari Set . Base Made by C G & Co, Charles Green & Co Ltd
Birmingham Est 1905

83
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-06-2011
11:31 PM
ET (US)

OHHHH Debi.... I'm GLAD to know where my salts come from officially...
I believe the catalogs over the sellers any day !!!
The sellers just roam through the flea markets I'm sure !!!... and the sellers at the flea markets will tell you anything you want to hear !!!
I was THANKING you for the info !!!
I wrote it on my salts info card !!!
I will probably print this topic out because I have so far most of the salts shown and will collect the info when I have more time or when I can think more clearly...
I HOPE I can print out the pages ??? Haven't tried it yet ???
Thanks again for the info !!!
Until later... P.J.

84
Debi
Raitz*
08-07-2011
04:07 PM
ET (US)

When you print out a topic, first click on the small words at the top, "All Messages." Then if you want it printed in the order of the posts, click on that small arrow next to those words. That will reverse the order of the messages to oldest first. I have done that with the older topics that are now in PDF form under the "Past Topic Links" link above.
Debi

85
"The Salty
Nut"...
P.J.
08-07-2011
06:12 PM
ET (US)

Does anyone out there know if this use to have a lid on the mustard???

86 mary
kern
08-07-2011
06:40 PM
ET (US)

YEP !! But who cares ----- It is beautiful P.J. -- I may be wrong and I am sure Inez will know better than I - but I think ALL mustard pots had lids - Only the salts might wind up without a lid -- Mary

87
Jane
Koble
08-07-2011
07:57 PM
ET (US)

This is my one and only. Only the holder is signed: Warranted Hard Soldered. "J P" in a diamond, "S" in a diamond, and another "S" in a diamond. Electroplated on Nickel Silver, 301.

88
Jane
Koble
08-07-2011
07:58 PM
ET (US)

This a closeup of the flowered decoration.

89

Debi Raitz* 08-07-2011 08:04 PM ET (US)

Yes, that is gorgeous and I'd have bought it without a lid too. I think it's a bit difficult to say that EVERY mustard had a lid. I would guess that probably 99% do, or did. But I rather doubt that blue and white faded set I showed in /m9 ever did. I know the picture is too small to see the detail. The top edge flares outward and from a distance, or that small picture, it looks like it should have a lid too. But the wavy design of the china has bumps and indents in the neck just below the very top edge on the inside. A top with a collar section that would have to set down into the mustard would either have to match that oddness perfectly, or be very small to fit inside all the bumps. Another point is that a notch for that larger sized matching spoon would have to be a very large notch. It's not a salt spoon because it's way too large for the salt. Whenever I see condiment sets with no lid now, I always look to see if it should, or could, have had a lid. So many of those German sets with the barrel shaped mustard may not have had lids. They were made as inexpensive souvenir pieces, so maybe they were sold without lids. But then every so often I see that shape with a lid - not necessarily the souvenir sets - just that same shape. I think I have a blue and white set (or five) in that general shape, not all with mustard lids!

Debi

90
Debi Raitz* 08-07-2011 08:13 PM ET (US)

See all the ones on the top of the case.

91
"The Salty Nut"... P.J. 08-08-2011 01:16 PM ET (US)

Pretty Blues Debi !!
The ones without tops... mine has no wear (scrapes or scratches) ???
inside or on top ??? how about yours ???
This was another clue I was curious about...
I would hate to see the mustard after an hour of sitting uncovered though !!! Maybe it was for jam for the lady's breakfast table???
For her salt/pepper and jam ??? Who knows ??? Who cares ??? I'm with you Mary... It's pretty !! I loved the cameo effect...
Until later... P.J.

92
Lyleann 08-08-2011 02:06 PM ET (US)

Debi,
Those are lovely !!!! I have the one on the top right !!!

93
Debi Raitz* 08-08-2011 04:57 PM ET (US)

If I'm not mistaken, the mustard used in these condiment sets was not the mustard we are accustomed to, but rather a mustard powder. It was another spice or seasoning, not the liquidy yellow mustard we squirt on hot dogs.
Regarding rims...Scratches and nicks could be from a spoon so that's not a sure sign of a lid, but wear all around the very top would be. Another way to tell if something may have had a lid at one time is that the rim edge might not be glazed. Glaze can chip more easily than unglazed hard ceramic. That's why you may see a lot of French faience with missing glaze in spots, but the form itself is undamaged. This is not generally seen in condiment sets where the entire piece, inside and out, is glazed. But I have seen some small trinket box bottoms that could easily pass as open salts should have had lids because they have an unglazed top edge.

We will never know all there is to know. We should just know what to look for in making good decisions when we buy. The pink set with the lady is pretty enough, and scarce enough I would say, to buy with or without a lid. I know I've never seen another like it.

Debi

94
Inez
Austin
08-08-2011
09:35 PM
ET (US)

We are back from the beach. We needed a break from the heat. Foggy morning, sunny afternoons, highs in the 68-72 range.....heaven!

95
Inez
Austin
08-08-2011
09:47 PM
ET (US)

PJ...if you ever decide to sell, let me know, I covet all of yours as I do Debi's and several others....So far I want each one I have seen in this topic!!!! Inez

Mustards....yes perhaps dry but maybe a chutney or even a wet mustard made with vinegar, but remember in Hungary that would have been paprika and in Germany it might have been horseradish...different cultures different spices....Lots of the lids would have been metal not glass....and not attached.

96
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:12 AM
ET (US)

This set is unmarked. This one has 4 bottles. I also have glass ones with two cruets, so that makes 5 and some with a small bottle for horseradish or ? so that is a 6 bottle set. I will quickly look for one....

97
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:21 AM
ET (US)

This set has six items, papper, mustard, 2 open salts, 2 cruets. Marked 20 on the base. More likely Czech.

98
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:22 AM
ET (US)

That would be pepper! and with the prior set, the stopper does NOT go with the set.

99
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:43 AM
ET (US)

This is a soft paste set. Very old. More likely before 1850. The metal tops DO NOT go with the set. It should have an open salt. It has a shaker, mustard and 2 cruets. It is more likely French. Finding sets that have 4-6 items in glass is fairly easy and they were generally made before 1900. In hotel sets you occasionally find them with 8 items. It is highly unusual to find them in a ceramic in sets larger than 3.

100
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:44 AM
ET (US)

can't count.....3 cruets

101
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:52 AM
ET (US)

This 4 piece fine cut set has the horse radish bottle sitting in front of the cruet. Apparently I forgot to take any other pictures of this set, so you will have to squint. Most likely German.

102
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
01:53 AM
ET (US)

Still can't count, shaker, mustard, open salt, cruet, horse radish. That would make 5....

103
Debi
Raitz*
08-09-2011
02:08 AM
ET (US)

They are all so elegant, Inez. Is that a spoon attached to the top or is it tongs? Might just be a glass reflection. The picture enlarges fine.
Debi

104
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
02:46 AM
ET (US)

It's a metal spoon. I will look tomorrow and see if I have pictures of this or another set....gotta sleep now....

105
Inez
Austin
08-09-2011
02:05 PM
ET (US)

Another German set with horseradish (has a spoon). This one is missing the cruets.

106
Debi
Raitz
08-14-2011
01:56 AM
ET (US)

Took a couple more pictures the other day.

107
Debi
Raitz
08-14-2011
01:57 AM
ET (US)

Blue Willow set in a lighter shade of blue

Debi
Raitz★
08-14-2011
01:59 AM
ET (US)

Only a top view does this one any justice.

109
Debi
Raitz★
08-14-2011
02:00 AM
ET (US)

Love this little set on a plate. Remember drooling over it for years in H&J. Now I have two!

110
Debi
Raitz★
08-14-2011
02:02 AM
ET (US)

Last one for now...a better picture of that white to pale blue fade set.

111
Inez
Austin
08-14-2011

Ah, I am coveting, you should all lock your houses and set your alarms!

03:18 AM
ET (US)

112
Inez
Austin
08-14-2011
04:06 PM
ET (US)

Empireware Stoke on Trent, England, Ivory glaze

113 mary
kern
08-14-2011
04:49 PM
ET (US)

Well better late than never - Finally got Bob to take some pictures for my eBay selling and here are my four condiments - Have had them all for many many years but am sorry to say - especially to this group - They have never really caught on with me - I love all of yours - but the condiment bug just hasn't bitten me - Mary

114
mary
kern
08-14-2011
04:52 PM
ET (US)

Miniature plain set - Its best attribute is that the holder, lids and spoon are ALL Sterling - I have not looked up the marks - ut that pesky little lion is one of them - The other thing different about it is its size -

115
mary
kern
08-14-2011
04:55 PM
ET (US)

Though same miniature styling as the previous one - This one has green glass which is a plus to the fact that it is the usual plated metal -Mappin & Webb Prince's Plate London & Sheffield - Have not seen a green glass before --

116
mary
kern
08-14-2011
04:57 PM
ET (US)

Have had this set for a ton of years - When I got it I had to write Jane and ask her if it was the real thing - English with Coralene decoration - circa 1895 - The stand did not come with it - but works quite well holding the pieces --

117
mary
kern
08-14-2011
04:58 PM
ET (US)

The open salt - Bob took the picture with a flash so that it really shows all the tiny beads of glass that comprise the design --

Masculine condiment - Full rack on a red deer - Oh if only it still had it's shiny plating like the one in The OSC Plate 336 - But I still think it has some real beauty in the rough --

118 mary
kern
08-14-2011
05:01 PM
ET (US)

119
Debi
Raitz
08-14-2011
05:39 PM
ET (US)

Mary: I like your deer with the patina. Can't imagine having to polish all those nooks and crannies. Silver is not my thing, like condiments are not yours. Actually, I probably wouldn't have nearly as many condiment sets myself if they were not blue and white. I have very few that aren't - just some figurals and a few I like, and probably some tucked away I've had forever.
Debi

120 Jane Koble 08-14-2011 08:30 PM ET (US)	I like your deer, too! Really neat! Jane
121 Inez Austin 08-15-2011 02:37 AM ET (US)	More lovlies. I keep wanting to collect these figural stands, but they are pricy!
122 Nancy Villaverde 08-17-2011 07:36 PM ET (US)	Debi made me remember a blue & white condiment set, German I think with no marks except 4-digit numbers on each porcelains piece. Nancy V
123 Nancy Villaverde 08-17-2011 07:37 PM ET (US)	 Three piece set in EPNS stand.
124 Inez Austin 08-17-2011 09:08 PM ET (US)	Coveting, coveting....
125 Inez Austin 08-17-2011 09:23 PM ET (US)

Another of my plain janes - Percival Vickers and Co. LTD Manchester Rd268968 13 Jan 1896

126
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:16 PM
ET (US)

Hi All,

Still unpacking salts from my recent interior house painting, but wanted to thank everyone for posting all of your lovely condiment set as I've so enjoyed seeing all of your wonderful treasures. A special thanks goes out to Inez for sharing her many charming cabinets chuck full of these special little sets. I've spent many a night viewing your pictures as I still can't believe how many and the variety you have. I only have a few cruet sets and will post them next.

Joan

127
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:21 PM
ET (US)

Debi's Lancaster Hanley England Set in a different style holder.

128
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:24 PM
ET (US)

Another of Debi's "Blues" Marked Crown Staffordshire with Rd. No. 703050.

129
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:26 PM
ET (US)

George Jones Crescent China Silver Plate Cruet Set.

130
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:28 PM
ET (US)

Marked "Sandland Ware L & S, LTD. Staffordshire England". Seller's note read...Crinoline Lady Chintz Cruet Set in the "Old World Garden" pattern.

131
Joan F.
08-18-2011
03:34 PM
ET (US)

This set is missing its pepper but it is different than most already shown so I decided to post it. Marked "Crown Staffordshire Estd. 1801 England".

132
Inez
Austin
08-18-2011
04:20 PM
ET (US)

YUM!
You wouldn't believe how many times I have bid on the set you have labeled as Another of Debi's "Blues"
Marked Crown Staffordshire with Rd. No. 703050. Haven't won yet!

133
Debi
Raitz*
08-20-2011
06:55 PM
ET (US)

Textured on the outside of the pieces. A silvery blue-gray set marked Doulton Slaters. I don't know much about it. Holder and silver parts in rough condition. Looks like it was used a lot.

134
Susie P
08-20-2011
10:23 PM
ET (US)

Just a couple last condiment sets; Joan, I love the George Jones set - as Inez says; Coveting, coveting :) :) Ha! So many neat sets, this is fun!

I love these bunnies; someone else did too, as the gold on their heads is very faded :)

135
Susie P
08-20-2011
10:26 PM
ET (US)

136
Susie P
08-20-2011
10:27 PM
ET (US)

I think this is too cute; I love the windmill, and it moves!

137
Inez
Austin
08-22-2011
11:29 PM
ET (US)

Oh, my, several more for my wish list....

138
Debi
Raitz*
08-30-2011
11:15 PM
ET (US)

Last call for condiment set pictures!

139
Inez
Austin
08-31-2011
02:30 AM
ET (US)

Gotta save a few for the book....Let me see if I can "spare" one more!

140
Inez
Austin
08-31-2011
02:34 AM
ET (US)

The only marking is EPNS

141
Inez
Austin
08-31-2011
02:42 AM
ET (US)

There are quite a few photos here that I would love to put in the book (if I get it done folks that gave pictures get a free copy), but I can't capture them...not even to print. If I save the pages as Adobe files the pictures are too small to be useful....hummm

142
"The Salty
Nut" ...
P.J.
08-31-2011
11:28 AM
ET (US)

Inez,
You know you can always give me a shout for my condiment, doubles, cruet sets... can't wait to see your newest publication !!!
Hope I'm on your contribution list !!!
P.J.

143
Inez
Austin
08-31-2011
12:44 PM
ET (US)

Thanks P.J. I really appreciated all the pictures and detail for the last book. I hope to get in gear in the spring. I think I can see the light at the end of the tunnel for the book I am working on, let's hope it's the sun and not a train or a miners headlamp!! Inez

144
Debi
Raitz*
08-31-2011

I see the problem, Inez. When the pictures were just posted before, you could copy and save the image, but not now. If you save the small picture, it's just too small. I'll write to the quick topic people and see if that can be changed, or if we will have to just send you all our pictures. I don't mind doing it, but obviously you would not need every picture of every condiment set that everyone had since you seem to have far

05:40 PM ET (US)	more than the rest of us anyway. Debi
145 Debi Raitz* 08-31-2011 05:42 PM ET (US)	Inez: Maybe if you make a list of the message numbers of the pictures you want, we can all just see if it's one of our own and email you the picture. Debi
146 Inez Austin 08-31-2011 08:47 PM ET (US)	Here is my wish list for photos, I have not listed the number if I already have an example. If possible I need photos with lots of pixels, which means big files, any thing up to 8 mega bytes each is fine. My book email is serveridbook@aol.com. Lyleann 44 Susie P 3, 4, 37-43, 135, 136 Debi 7, 8, 9, 47-49, 52-55, 90, 105, 108-110, 133 PJ 70, 72, 73, 77-79, 85 Janelle 81 Lana K 87-88 Mary 115-118 Joan 127, 128 Joan F 130, 131 Hopefully I got that right, I took notes. If possible, I need a description and a size. I understand some of that may not be possible. Since I don't collect some of these types, I really really need info on them. Like the metal ones and the ones that are all moulded together. I just got my Adobe program to make Kindle type books, so that will be an option. Otherwise I am offering a free copy on DVD and your name on the photo in the book. Thanks for thinking of doing this for me. Inez
147 Mary Kern 09-01-2011 01:55 PM ET (US)	Wow - got in before Debi had a chance to post the new topic - Inez will do what I can to get you pictures - we are far from picture or computer savy - Would be more than willing to pack these and send them to you and you can take your own pictures if ours do not work well for you and then just send them back - Will send you the folders on them as I was planning on posting them on eBay so Bob has already done what it can picturewise with them - If the taken pictures don't work - Just let me know and I will add them to my stack of packing and mailing -- Mary
148 Inez Austin 09-01-2011 02:37 PM ET (US)	Mary, I have sent you an email. Thanks, Inez
149 Debi Raitz 09-01-2011 04:53 PM ET (US)	I wanted to make sure people who had images that Inez would like to have would see her message. I am going to work on the new topic page now and this page will still be available if you click on the Past Topic Links above. Debi

1-149 of 149 messages

Copyright ©1999-2012 Internicity Inc. All rights reserved. By using QuickTopic, you agree to our terms of use. | Privacy statement | FAQs | Contact