Sports & Professions Theme Scavenger Photo Hunt!

Any salt...a single, double or condiment set that is sports or profession related. These can be salts you own or just pictures you find in your internet searches. Copy and paste pictures to your computer and then upload them as usual. Person with most pictures of different items (different views do not count) in April will name the topic for May.

20 Nancy Dletel ★ 04-01-2014 12:18 PM ET (US) IP: 74.105.137.82	Debi, the golfer is about twice as large as the other intaglios. I will measure it if you want me to. I put it away for now, into my intaglio drawers.

Debi Raitz★ 04-01-2014 12:40 PM ET (US) IP: 69.14.220.22	That's OK Nancy. Just curious about the size because I never saw that one, but your description is fine. Goes without saying I would definitely be interested in buying one like that. I was surprised to see the boxing one too. Never saw that one that I can remember. I gathered all the silver golf salts we have so Larry can clean them before I take pictures. They sorely need it.

Perhaps we could expand the category to professions? I can think of those glass jockey caps, bandmaster hats, military hats, and I think all those thick Swedish salts have sports as well as farmers, loggers etc. I think we should also post duplicates if we own them or find the pictures. The count would be the number of pictures each person posts, regardless if someone else beat you to it. Different colors should count too.

I'll leave that to it's new owner when the time comes... Just keep posting for us "watchers"... it gives us a chance to drool and dream... when we have no room to collect anymore. And you all have surpassed my collection to the point where I rarely have anything to add... so, when I do... here I am... Love you all... And Debi... You continue to AMAZE me with your work... Mary... your collection is beyond words... as is everyones collection who contributes to the board... THANK YOU one and all !!! Those of us who are "the lurkers in the background" really do appreciate you !!!! The Salty Nut... P.J.

PJ., so nice to hear from you again! Even if all you lurkers don't have anything to post, at least check in once in a while. There are so many missing names and I, for one, would like to know you are still there. Lurk away, but please comment once in awhile or just say, "hi".

100 Nancy C Villaverde★ 04-03-2014 01:07 PM ET (US) IP: 66.25.48.23	Once again I'm amazed at the number of pieces in a category. I knew of only a few of these, mostly intaglios. The two I posted were taken from the internet, and all I searched for were ones with horse in the title.
101 Debi Raitz★ 04-03-2014 01:51 PM ET (US) IP: 69.14.220.22	When I pick a category, I try to think of something that isn't very limited, keeping in mind there's less than 10 of us who do this regularly. But it also can't be so broad that we'd need to photograph and post half our collections. No one would do that. Some topics we have either never done, or did very long ago are rigaree, transferware, EAPG salts, yellow and/or orange salts (not very many of those compared to other colors), square salts, bird salts (figural and/or painted on)... Whoever decides the May topic can use one of those or make up something else. I also thought of taking a page from H&J or Smith and seeing if we could fill the page from our own collections. But it wouldn't take a month to do that. Maybe 15 days for one page and the rest of the month for another page? Some of the colored glass pages in H&J might be good for that.

I looked at the picture (that I took) on the other website but that slide show thing makes them so small you can't see any detail. They had a billiard table salt - at least I think it was a salt - that would be fun to see pictured here. Can you ask them about it?

Here's the picture I took at the 2005 convention of one of the displays. (I found where I have all the old meeting pictures stored - on an external hard drive.) I think this is large enough to see some detail. That is definitely a billiard table salt but I would still like to see a better picture if possible. One of the silver golf salts is like mine. There's a couple more ideas here if anyone has these salts - sledding and card playing for instance. We are only one week into an entire month, so let's see more creativity!

No problem Mary. We have plenty of time. I wanted to see if I still had all those pictures anyway and it turns out, I do. Just had to figure out where I would have stashed them all since I do not have them on either computer. If that billiard table really is a salt, I would like to know more about it when you get a chance. Or invite the Grubes to post a better picture of it here. I always remembered it and thought it was quite unique.

Baseball master salt

212 Nancy C Villaverde★ 04-24-2014 01:16 PM ET (US) IP: 66.25.49.140	I think the baseball covered salt is a very desirable piece. Seem to remember something about its rarity a while ago.
213 E. Jane Koble 04-24-2014 03:56 PM ET (US) IP: 71.58.137.189	Yes, I want that baseball salt in the worst way!
214 Debi Raitz★ 04-24-2014 04:51 PM ET (US) IP: 69.14.220.22	I knew it existed so I did a search to find a picture. I don't believe it's for sale, just a gallery picture of it on a website. If I ever find one for sale, I'll be sure to let you know Jane.
215 Mary Kern★ 04-24-2014 05:04 PM ET (US) IP: 72.220.213.56	You are a far better person than I Debi -- I bow to your generosity Now make sure you find two or Jane's house will never have enough protection -- Is there a hockey puck salt??????
216 E. Jane Koble 04-24-2014 05:37 PM ET (US) IP: 71.58.137.189	I don't think there is a hockey puck salt, unfortunately. I'll just have to make due with my hockey puck collection!
217 Mary Kern★ 04-24-2014 05:58 PM ET (US)	I remember when you told me you collected Hockey pucks - I thought that was so amazing - Oh my I just remembered something about doing a hockey dance for one of your teams mega years ago - I think it was even while Phydeaux was with us -- Now what the heck did I have for lunch ---
