Yay, like it! Wheels, wheee!

Small wheelbarrow

Older wheelbarrow, name escapes me....

Anyone for a goat?

Pony and cart....

21 Janelle 06-01-2015 06:46 AM ET (US) IP: 124.169.156.124	Susie, what had the registry mark 218710 ? Cart? Registered as the Wheelbarrow by Greener
22 Susie P 06-01-2015 07:14 AM ET (US) IP: 107.77.87.87	Hi Janelle! the cart? In 13 had the registry mark.....
23 Janelle 06-01-2015 07:25 AM ET (US) IP: 124.169.156.124	Problem solved Susie, Greener registered the design 218710 as a wheelbarrow with Gadroon. Now seeing he had registered the PATTERN on the Wheelbarrow as well as the shape, he was able to use the pattern on a coal truck as well. It gets a bit confusing when what we think is strictly the shape is registered and then the registration number turns up on other items that do not seem to fit. Burtle & Tate did it as well
24 Susie P 06-01-2015	Oh, that is interesting! New knowledge for me, thank you, Janelle!!!

Ok, one more then I go fix lunch and then go find my suitcase and do like Mary and see what I've got to wear this next week, sounds like it's going to be pretty cool weather for the convention.
This is a poor picture of a very nice Nippon salt.

This is not mine - but when I was talking about thimble holders I could not remember Palais Royal in Paris - which is where this is from and this style -- Circa 1850/1860 - I had quite a few at one time but alas and alack - they are now with a thimble collector - so maybe that is really a good thing --
