Sweet flowers, don't know if they are lily of the valley or snow drops.

Very common basket of flowers. This is kept just for happy memories. I was shopping with 3 friends found a set of 4 of these for $16. I bought them and we each took one home.

Some of these have the Hoffman butterfly mark, forgot to mention it. O.K, Nancy D, it's up to you now.

| Nancy C Villaverde★ 06-10-2016 01:04 PM ET (US) IP: 97.99.250.43 | There must be lots more designs to go! I have a couple that are too hard to reach, but I expect others to show the designs I have. By the way, I sometimes see intaglio pieces described as having a cut design. We all know the design is pressed when the piece is made and not hand cut, right? Most then have acid applied to make the design show better. I guess that is acid etched so they could be called etched designs. |

Susie your #104 that shifts from blue to purple is Neodymium glass, called Alexandrite by Moser and Twilight by Tiffin. Under florescent lights it's blue, under ordinary bulbs or in sunlight it's lavender. I love this glass and have had several examples. I'm using a double tube vase now as a toothbrush holder, blue in my bathroom with florescent light. If I take it into the bedroom, it's suddenly lavender. You can find all kinds of items on eBay.

I should know to look it up before I ask. I googled and found it is the symbol of St. Mark the Evangelist and of the city of Venice.

I was going to say that even on the intaglio, it looks more like a human face than a lion. The picture Nancy posted also looks like a human face. I Binged it and found this comment: The winged lion is a symbol of peace. The lion with an open book is a symbol of peace, with its book closed is a symbol of war.

There is also the detail that there is a sword at the feet of the lion, not visible in the image shown. Maybe it's there only with the closed book symbol. Interesting imagery to be on a small glass item like an intaglio salt or ash tray.

Jane: I never got an answer from Steve. The next time you or anyone else gets some sort of error message, please copy it and then click the contact button at the bottom of this page. Make sure you select to send it to the QT Staff and send it to them. I can't duplicate the problem so I can't tell them exactly what it says.

Jane - do you know how many you have? I'm not dry in my mouth ☺☺☺ and once you told me these are belonging to this group
Debi - Thanks for deleting "my many pictures"

Okay, Debi, I will do that.
Jytte - I have no idea! There are a lot out on display, and I have two boxes full in a closet. I hate having things I can't put out, but where would I put them all???
