1 Debi Raitz★ 08-01-2016 12:13 AM ET (US) IP: 69.14.123.141	This month will take a bit of imagination. Look at your salts and see which ones really could pass for miniature flower pots. The picture above was my first convention display. Maybe it will provide a little inspiration.

3 Debi Raitz ★ 08-01-2016 01:28 AM ET (US) IP: 69.14.123.141	Goodmorning - hope I have found a right one? I have never thought of looking at my salts this way ☺
4 Nancy C Villaverde ★ 08-01-2016 10:57 AM ET (US) IP: 97.99.220.53	 Looks OK to me Jytte. Of course, any baskets could easily hold flowers too. I kept a few of the salts with the flowers in them but they have certainly faded over the years. I'll do some pictures in daylight.
5 Nancy C Villaverde ★ 08-01-2016 10:58 AM ET (US) IP: 97.99.220.53	 Fun idea, Debi, though I don't think I'll put potting soil and flowers into any of my salts. Here is a Chinese lily pot.

Nancy C Villaverde★ 08-01-2016 11:05 AM ET (US) IP: 97.99.220.53	 Wedgwood, similar shape.
8 Nancy C Villaverde★ 08-01-2016 11:06 AM ET (US) IP: 97.99.220.53	Debi, I especially like your 2-faced lady holding a flower basket.
9 Nancy Dietel 08-01-2016 12:08 PM ET (US) IP: 74.105.147.146	 This is not exactly fitting the catagory, but thought you all would like to see this. It is a salt with seashell flowers crafted by an Artisan in Cape Cod. I bought it many years ago at a Cape artists show. Good use of common salts.
10 Nancy C Villaverde★ 08-01-2016 03:23 PM ET (US) IP: 97.99.220.53	Neat piece, Nancy D.

13 Jytte 08-02-2016 12:32 AM ET (US) IP: 90.184.148.85	 2 x Nancy - why do you call it a "lily" pot? - have never seen such pots in Denmark called this (I think) Baskets Debi say - so one of mine
14 Jytte 08-02-2016 12:33 AM ET (US) IP: 90.184.148.85	 And one more
15 Jytte 08-02-2016 12:35 AM ET (US) IP: 90.184.148.85	 And this one I think would be nice with a "hanging plant"
16 Nancy C Villaverde★ 08-02-2016 10:51 AM ET (US)	Jytte, the Chinese call them lily pots because full sized ones in this shape are designed for planting Narcissus bulbs, a lily plant associated with a spring Narcissus festival. Some think these tiny ones were made as children's toys.

IP: 97.99.220.53
17 Nancy Dietel 08-02-2016 10:54 AM ET (US) IP: 74.105.147.146	Jytte, my understanding of the lily pots is that they were miniatures of the ones that the Chinese planted used to plant their Lily bulbs. Some say they were for children to play with. I don't know the truth. Maybe Nancy V. knows more. I love them! So colorful.
18 Nancy Dietel 08-02-2016 10:55 AM ET (US) IP: 74.105.147.146	Nancy V. Beat me to the explanation.
19 Jytte 08-02-2016 12:05 PM ET (US) IP: 90.184.148.85	 Thanks Nancy V and Nancy D ☺ Debi - you still make me look at my salts in some other way - Thanks.... My German walnuts are perfect for flowers - and they have a handle when they are to be moved ☺

60

Debi Raitz★ 08-09-2016 07:22 PM ET (US) IP: 69.14.123.141	Some are silk and others seem to be some kind of resin. I bought them many years ago at Michael's in the bridal section. I guess they were meant for favors. This display was made for the 1999 Chicago convention so it was a long time ago, but they probably have a much larger selection now. A little piece of florist foam (that green stuff) and some green moss after you're done arranging. Really easy.

Back when I was selling on this site, I sold scads of salts. I know I've said before, but except for ones I just can't give up, I enjoy selling to other collectors almost as much as growing my own collection. That said, I'm still buying. I bought a mini EAPG tumbler today; don't ask me why. It's pretty is why, so there! Way off topic. Not really sorry

I always make notations of other collectors I have bought from. Still getting therapy, so not moving very quickly yet.

Jytte, loved your article on Danish salts in the newsletter. I think I've seen some unmarked glass salts that could be Danish with no idea that might be so.

Selection of pottery "planters". The yellow ware is signed RBD and something else that I can't read. The others are all signed White. One is the OSCAR salt, one is dated 2008, and the third (the green one) is dated 2013.

156 Debi Raitz★ 08-30-2016 04:07 PM ET (US) IP: 69.14.123.141	OK folks, I am truly out of ideas for a new topic. Look at the past topics list and see if there might be an old one worth repeating now. I'm sure most collections have evolved a bit in the past 5-6 years. Or if someone has a new idea...let me know. I was thinking about fancy bottoms, but that would probably involve taking new pictures instead of what most of us already have in our picture files.
157 E. Jane Koble★ 08-30-2016 06:44 PM ET (US) IP: 174.55.22.195	I don't see Red Salts, but I don't know if we'd have enough. I also thought of The Zoo. We did birds and cats and dogs, but this would be anything else. Or salts in shape of flowers or seashells.

165 Debi Raitz★ 08-31-2016 10:15 AM ET (US) IP: 69.14.123.141	Jane: That's the problem with most specialized topics...that we each might have just a couple red salts, or flower or shell shaped salts. We did "Critters" in 2015 that was any and all animals except cats, dogs, birds and swans. How about we combine some less common colors like orange, yellow and vaseline? These probably fell into some fall colors topic before too, but I don't think we concentrated on vaseline before.
