1 Debi Raitz★ 01-01-2017 02:32 AM ET (US)	Happy New Year! New topic all set to go.
2 Jytte 01-01-2017 03:37 AM ET (US)	 My latest - and I don't know anything about it (Janelle soon sending the spoons stamps/marks to my expert.....)
3 Susie P★ 01-01-2017 06:06 AM ET (US)	Jytte, you find the most wonderful treasures! This is beautiful!
4 E. Jane Koble★ 01-01-2017	It almost looks Russian - but don't take my word. I know next to nothing about silver.

5 Jytte 01-01-2017 12:00 PM ET (US)	Thanks Susie - and Jane I did think Russia myself or Italy - the stamp on the spoon is bad and I can't find any on the salt.....
6 Mary Kern★ 01-01-2017 01:15 PM ET (US)	Well Jytte - You just started and topped the Heavy Metal month - Outstanding!!!!
7 Debi Raitz★ 01-01-2017 02:47 PM ET (US)	That is a real beauty Jytte. Why don't you post the picture of the marks here and maybe we can scan through the 925-1000 silver website and see if we can find a match.
8 Jytte 01-01-2017 03:01 PM ET (US)	Thanks Ladies--- Debi - I tried - but it didn't work - I have to wait and try by day-light (but they are bad)
9 Susie P 01-01-2017 03:54 PM ET (US)	Okay, all metal? No glass inserts? Just trying to get the hang of it, LOL!

Here are some that are all metal, and for "Some" reason?? These are multiples??? Too many....

These are extremely light, marked 800 and MH??

Love the doggies! #15 reminds me - I sold one of those once through the mail. As soon as the woman got it, she called me and gave me all kinds of hell because the rest of the dogs were missing. There were supposed to be dogs all around the base. I told her look in your H&J. Only two. She sure was mad!

I think we would have quite a few silver and/or metal salts without liners that we didn't need to include those. That could be a topic all by itself.

Wow! Is that Danish vessel life sized, Jytte? I've always loved these Norse ships, have had various pewter ones, but presently just the silver and silver plated ones I posted. There is a salt collector who posted a long series of them somewhere a while back, but I can't remember her name. She had a site where she posted all her pictures.

There was a collector named Terri and her website is still linked on the Collections page. I had tried to email her several times years ago but there never was any response. I don't know if I ever knew what her last name was. But now we have Lea who I'm pretty sure has an amazing amount of Viking ships.

Jytte... I just posted your #120 on ebay... but it has the glass liner and the spoon and wooden box to go with it... same clover design on the front and back... :-} Think it was found in one of the Smith books...

PJ - I can't see your ebay selling - think it's because you only sell in US - remember it was the same with Mary in the start....

Mary - amazing ☺☺☺☺☺

From me three Danish in boxes - only this first one shown in the box - "Meka"

Love all the metal salts you shared with us, but this last one is exceptional in my mind. #145 is so unusual. Love the engraving and the little bent legs. Did you get that one in China?

Thanks for the additional photos. The work on it is amazing. I see now that the legs are actually extensions of the branches of the cherry blossoms. I've never seen anything like that before.

Very elaborate pierced rim. Marked "Reed & Barton, silver soldere" also engraved initials on base, "JJL" it is old script, so my interpretation of letters may be wrong. Could be two "g" s. Red mark in bowl is flashback, it is smooth color all over.

Intaglio in a silver plate "basket". From the T.S.S. Cameronia. This passenger ship was launched in 1919. In 1935 she was used as a troop transport and again in 1941. At various times after this she was again used as a troop transport until 1957 when she was broken up.
